

World-Architects > Magazin > Specials

In conversation: The path to enhancing the quality of stays in the hospital

Katinka Corts

30. August 2023

Linus Hofrichter (a|sh architekten), Sylvia Leydecker (100% interior) and Boris Augurzky (RWI Essen) in the interview (Illustration: World-Architects)

In the special topic "Healing Architecture", we engage in discussions with important national and international experts about the criteria for creating high-quality environments in healthcare buildings. The topic will focus on the complex healthcare system, including such specialized areas as psychiatry and senior-friendly construction, as well as issues like digitalization and lighting design. In the opening interview, we bring together three key stakeholders: interior architect Sylvia Leydecker, architect Prof. Linus Hofrichter, and business specialist Prof. Dr. Boris Augurzky, who regularly deal with hospital planning and economic aspects in this field from different perspectives.